Pictured at right is J.L. Shinpaugh, our Rogers Chief of Police from 1906-07 and 1910-11. During those years, however, the post was known as City Marshal. Shinpaugh was born in Illinois, but came to Rogers late in the 1890s or early in the 1900s. He served on the town police force from about 1904 on and was the first town lawman to wear an official uniform, probably during his 1910 term of office. In 1944, the City of Rogers changed the title of City Marshal to

Chief of Police. Walter Dean, who served the community between 1930 and 1953, was the first peace officer in Rogers to officially hold this title. The individuals who oversaw law enforcement in Rogers are listed below.
